

NEW BOMBSHELL ABOUT TO BURST 13 PERISH IN TENEMENT BLAZE

STARTLING TURN IN OIL INQUIRY STIRS CAPITAL, DAUGHERTY UNDER FIRE

STORY OF HEAVY SPECULATION BY GOVT. OFFICIALS

New Bomb Explodes Before Oil Committee, Tending to Reveal That High Officials of Administration Speculated Heavily on Stock of Sinclair Companies Before and After Teapot Dome Lease.

(Associated Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The senate oil committee undertook today to run down a story of heavy speculation by high government officials in the stock of the Sinclair oil companies before and after the Sinclair interests leased the Teapot Dome.

H. H. Benkard, of the New York brokerage firm of J. P. Benkard and Company, his personal attorney, S. D. Bowers, and A. H. Cook, office manager of the Benkard firm were in conference with the committee in executive session and it was decided to send expert accountants to New York to examine the records of the firm.

Mr. Bowers gave out this statement: "Mr. Benkard was subpoenaed to produce records of certain stock transactions. These records were produced. J. P. Benkard and Company have no knowledge or information that these records are in any way connected with the transactions under investigation or that they affect any one in any way connected with the subject matter under investigation."

The following statement was made by Chairman Lenroot: "Officials of Benkard and Company appeared before the committee and produced books and records. They were requested to have the committee or its accountants go over all of their records. Some of these are so voluminous that it will be necessary for accountants to examine them. It is now being sent to New York to examine them."

Harry Payne Whitney, New York financier, also had been subpoenaed and was expected to appear today but the committee received no word from him and efforts to locate him in Washington proved unavailing.

Elmer E. Smathers, of New York, subpoenaed along with Mr. Whitney and members of the Benkard firm, is now in Europe, the committee was advised. Before conferring with the brokers, the committee called in Atlee Pomeroy and Owen J. Roberts, special government counsel in the oil cases, for a general discussion of the oil cases, and the committee also inquired into matters which formed the subject of conferences between Senators Walsh and Wheeler, Democrats, and Chairman Lenroot and Mr. Pomeroy.

Committee members said that it was the desire to have the closest possible co-operation with the government counsel and to leave to them the questions of law which from time to time necessarily come before the committee.

One of the subjects discussed and finally referred to counsel was a request from one witness who in under subpoena for assistance in the case, would be given immunity if he appeared and made a full statement. The committee has been told that this witness has much valuable information.

Carter Wants an Apology Before Resuming Work
(Associated Press Leased Wire) CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 19.—Replying to the telegram from the Egyptian minister of public works, giving him 24 hours in which to resume work in the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, Howard Carter wired the committee that he was ready to take up the work again provided he received an apology from the director of antiquities and an understanding from the minister of public works that no vexatious interference would occur and no difficulties be placed in the way of the further progress of the task. Otherwise he would take proceedings against the government.

ASKED TO RESIGN

HARRY M. DAUGHERTY

TOWN TOPICS

A telegram was privately received here this morning announcing the death in Tarrytown, N. Y., of A. P. E. Husted. Mr. Husted was not known in Danville, but he married Miss Violet Johnston, who is a first cousin of Mrs. Joseph B. Anderson, Frank Talbot, and Harry Thomas. Mrs. Husted is a daughter of Dr. Charles Johnston of Richmond where she lived at one time, frequently visiting Danville.

No material change was noted overnight in the condition of Ethel Emerson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Emerson, who was brought to Edmonds Hospital yesterday seriously burned. The child was pronounced this morning as still in a critical condition, though everything was being done to prolong the spark of life.

Danville experienced its first sleet storm of the season this morning. Rain which began falling during the night with a falling thermometer, congealed just before daylight and transformed trees and bushes into fanciful figures.

The town clock succumbed to the onslaught of the elements at 11:37, by which time the hands were firmly encrusted, the added weight stopping the mechanism.

Firemen were called at 6:45 p. m. last night to Randolph Macon institute where a burning chimney caused some apprehension. Firemen remained on the scene long enough to see that no danger from falling sparks was likely to eventuate.

The scholarship committee recently appointed by Wayles K. Harrison, president of the Community Welfare Association to provide church school education for several indigent children will hold its initial meeting at five o'clock this afternoon in the rooms of the association.

The regular weekly session of the Danville Board of Health held at one o'clock this afternoon at the Burton Hotel, the programme today being in charge of J. C. McFall.

Announcement was made today of a settlement reached between the heirs of W. T. East, a farmer of Java who eighteen months ago was killed when a shifting engine of the Southern Railway Company struck and demolished a motor oil truck at South and Riddle's crossing. In the accident J. W. East, a brother was seriously injured. Suit in the case was never entered an amicable agreement being arrived at between representatives of the Southern Railway Company and counsel for the victim and for the injured brother. The settlement reached in the case of W. T. East was $3,000, the sum of $3,000 being ordered by the court paid to the widow for her support and for the support of her five children. The remainder $750, to reimburse G. H. Fitzgerald owner of the truck in the case of J. W. East a settlement of $1,250 was reached, his attorney stated.

DOWNING URGES THAT LESSER BILL BE PASSED
(Associated Press Leased Wire) RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 19.—The State Corporation commission took the railroads out of Virginia politics and if it did this, it certainly can do the same thing with the Virginia Pilot Association, Senator Downing of Lancaster declared today in urging the Senate to pass the Lesser bill designed to place the organization under the commission.

ATTY. GENERAL IS DEFIANT IN FACE OF ATTACK

Demand For Resignation Becomes Most Acute Problem Growing Out of Scandal—Has No Intention of Quitting But Senators Are Confident He Will Be Forced Out—Refuses to Talk.

(Associated Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Attorney General Daugherty remained defiant today in the face of new attacks on him and the Tuesday cabinet meeting passed without an announcement of his resignation.

Department of Justice officials insisted that he had no intention of surrendering to his critics, but Senators who have taken the lead in advising the president to ask him to resign remained confident that their advice would be followed.

Mr. Daugherty himself, arriving at the cabinet meeting a half hour late, would not say whether the weather, which he changed an hour later and was questioned by newspaper men he showed plain signs of agitation and annoyance, but he insisted that the question of his resignation had not been discussed, and declared he had no statement to make for the present.

White House officials also declared the cabinet had not discussed the possible retirement of the attorney general. It was added that Mr. Daugherty had not submitted his resignation.

Just before the cabinet meeting the president had been in conference with the government's special counsel in the oil cases, and previously both he and the attorney general had been told of the new turn taken by the oil investigation.

In addition to the information given by the Montana Senator, the committee also was asking a group of New York brokers to disclose whether their books show any oil speculations by past and present high officials of the government.

AN ACUTE PROBLEM
(Associated Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The demand for the resignation of Attorney General Daugherty suddenly has become one of the most acute of all the questions growing out of the oil scandal and there were indications today that some important development could be expected shortly.

Protests against Mr. Daugherty's continuance in office have come to the White House from several new sources and were before President Coolidge when the cabinet met for Tuesday session. In some quarters it was believed that a statement (Continued on Page Five)

SIX INJURED IN PISTOL FIGHT BETWEEN ESCAPED PRISONERS AND POLICE
(Associated Press Leased Wire) LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 19.—Six men, two of them suspected automobile bandits and alleged escaped convicts, and four city policemen, nursed bullet wounds today as a result of a desperate bid for freedom by the gunmen which included a running pistol fight through traffic thronged streets in the heart of the downtown district here.

The pistol battle was initiated late yesterday by Lee Wallace, 23, Franklin, Ind., and Rex Stacey, alias Harry Miller, 24, St. Louis, Mo., when they suddenly drew weapons, wounded four policemen who were guarding them, leaped from an automobile patrol as the machine approached police headquarters and darted away. Police and detectives joined in pursuit and hundreds of persons, pedestrians, occupants of street cars and automobiles and workers in office buildings attracted by the sound of firing, witnessed the spectacular chase.

FORMER BISHOP TO BE TRIED

REV. WILLIAM M. BROWN

By NEA Service.

GALLON, O., Feb. 18.—Adam and Eve figure prominently in the forthcoming trial for heresy of Rev. William M. Brown, former Episcopal bishop of Arkansas, now living here. In a bill of complaint, formally filed by three members of the House of Bishops, the clergyman is accused of holding and teaching through a book "Communism and Christianity," doctrines contrary to those held by the Episcopal belief.

Rev. Brown, who says he welcomes investigation by constituted church authorities, expressed a willingness to withdraw from the House of Bishops if the members would declare belief in the literally interpreted representations of the Bible.

Among these, he mentioned the creation and downfall of Adam and Eve, the birth of Christ and other issues.

"Orthodox christianism and Orthodox scientism are irrevocably opposed to each other," Bishop Brown says.

Senator Greene In Serious State
(Associated Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Senator Greene, of Vermont, was in a critical condition today from the wound he received Friday night when he was hit by a stray bullet fired during the shooting which accompanied a chase of alleged bootleggers by a prohibition enforcement party.

A second operation for the removal of bone splinters from his brain, found imperative late last night, was followed for a short time by a favorable turn in his condition, but he soon suffered a grave relapse due to a hemorrhage. The latter complication was quickly overcome, however, and he was described at 6 a. m. as being "very slightly better."

Dr. Thomas Linville, Senator Greene's family physician, at noon described his patient's state this way: "His condition is critical. He is holding his own fairly well."

SUGAR PLANTATIONS DESTROYED BY FIRE
(Associated Press Leased Wire) HAVANA, Feb. 19.—Fires in four sugar plantations in Camaguey province within the last 24 hours have caused an estimated loss of eleven million pounds of sugar.

The fires, which broke out in the fields, while cane fields burn easily at this season and accidental fires are common, investigations are being made on the theory that some of these fires were of incendiary origin.

DEATH OF AN INFANT
Howard Luther, two months' son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Scourge, died at the parental home, North Main street, this morning after a week's illness of pneumonia. The funeral will be held from the graveside at New Design at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon by Rev. J. C. Holland.

MEN BELIEVED TO BE ESCAPED CONVICTS
(By the Associated Press.) INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 19.—Two automobile bandits wounded in a revolver battle with Louisville police last night are believed to have escaped from the Indiana State reformatory at Pendleton, Ind., January 12. Although they gave their names to the Louisville police as Lee Wallace, of Franklin, Ind., and Harry Miller, of St. Louis, Mo., they are known to be escaped convicts from the reformatory, according to local police.

Wallace was committed to the reformatory after having been convicted in Marion county of robbing an Indianapolis jewelry store while Stacey was sentenced from Marion county for vehicle taking.

Both were trustees at the reformatory and escaped while outside the prison walls.

EXPERTS REACH AGREEMENT ON DEBT PROBLEM

Propose Mortgage on German Railway System to Derive Regular Payments to Allies on Reparations Debt—To Submit Report to Commission.

(Associated Press Leased Wire) PARIS, Feb. 19.—The expert committees examining Germany's resources have reached a general agreement on their report to the Reparation Commission, according to information from authoritative quarters today. They have decided it is better to insist on the formidable loan to be placed on the international market previously suggested, a mortgage of approximately $10 billion, gold marks on the German railway system and other sources of revenue of the German government shall form the basis of a plan by which the allied countries, especially France, will derive regular payments of interest.

The mortgage bonds to be issued would be first lien on the railways and be divided among Germany's creditors on the basis of the percentage adopted at the Spain conference in 1920—France 52 per cent; Great Britain 26, Italy 10, Belgium 8, with the remainder 4 per cent divided among the other allies.

A relatively small international loan will also be recommended to help Germany set up the proposed national gold issue bank. In this loan American financiers will be asked to invest its amount remains to be fixed but it will probably not exceed $500,000,000. If the plan is accepted by the allied governments, part of this loan will be offered in the "amortization" market.

The proposed mortgage on Germany's resources would not involve the advance of any money to Germany by the holders of the mortgage securities but it would be represented by the issue of gold marks of marketable German paper guaranteed by those resources. The interest rate will probably be six per cent.

On the basis proposed France, whose share of the mortgage bonds would be $200,000,000 gold marks would receive $12,000,000 gold marks yearly.

The mortgage securities, according to the plan, would be transferable by indorsement of the receiving government which would be a fit and a market could be found for them.

The experts express belief that this plan would create a real asset which would be received with accumulating interest as the quarterly interest payments were met.

The bond issue is involved to some extent with the occupation of the Ruhr and France would be expected to withdraw her civilian organization there.

If the military occupation continued it would be of the slightest character.

INVESTIGATION OF GAME DEPT. TO BE DELAYED

Inquiry Into Charges of Extravagance and Use of Boats For Illegal Practices Will Be Put Off Until Close of Assembly.

(Associated Press Leased Wire) RICHMOND, Feb. 19.—Indications that the legislative investigation of the State Department of Game and Inland Fisheries will be delayed until after the close of the present session of the committee today.

Senator Willis, of Roanoke, City, was elected chairman of the investigation committee and he appointed a sub-committee to notify Commissioner McDonald Lee that he would be given a hearing tomorrow morning on the question of delaying the inquiry until after the close of the session. Several members stated they favored the delay owing to the large amount of work now confronting them in both houses and in regular committees.

After selecting Delegate Cato, Greensville, temporary chairman of the committee, immediately took up the matter of electing a permanent head. Delegate Davis, Norfolk county, nominated Senator Willis. Delegate Bragg, Brunswick, vigorously opposed the election of Senator Willis and nominated Delegate Warren, of Pittsylvania. Senator Stubbs, of Middlesex, who brought charges of extravagant expenditures of state funds and illegal and immoral practices, also opposed Senator Willis and nominated Senator Rogers, Sussex.

"I feel sure Senator Willis will make the committee an impartial chairman," Senator Rogers said, "and I want to second his nomination. I will need a lawyer to see that this investigation is conducted properly, under court procedure, and I do not feel I am qualified."

Delegate Bragg declared he was opposed to Senator Willis because the latter had made assertions in had been elected to the department and also had opposed the investigation.

"I do not agree with the gentleman to his feet," Senator Willis was the author of the first resolution ordering the investigation to be conducted by the committee.

Senator Stubbs asserted he did not feel that Senator Willis should be made chairman and developed from the latter that he had been placed in his hands by representatives of the Department of Game and Inland Fisheries.

In view of the fact that he himself was the author of the second resolution, which included the charges relating to use of department boats for "illegal and immoral purposes," Senator Stubbs said he would not feel qualified to serve as chairman.

Meanwhile, Delegate Cato had been placed in nomination and he told the committee he saw no reason why Senator Willis should not be elected chairman.

On the vote, all names were withdrawn except those of Delegate Warren and Senator Willis. The vote was as follows:

For Senator Willis, Cato, Davis and Rogers.

For Warren, Bragg and Stubbs.

Neither Senator Willis nor Delegate Warren voted.

The chairman agreed with Senator Stubbs that the heavy program of work in both houses and in committees made it almost impossible to conduct the investigation at the present time, but said he felt Commissioner Lee should be given an opportunity to express his views as the latter had requested an immediate inquiry.

"There will be dozens of witnesses that will appear before the committee," Senator Stubbs said, revealing later that these would be used in feeling with his allegations of improper conduct on the department boats.

"It will take members a week to digest the financial report of the department and we have not sufficient time to hold sessions in the morning go ahead but we all want a full and complete investigation and I feel certain that in hearing witnesses it will be necessary for us to hold sessions throughout the day on a number of occasions."

When the committee meets tomorrow, it will take up the question of whether counsel will be employed to represent the State in the investigation. Chairman Willis assured that the inquiry would be "pushed" and that he would do everything in his power "to go to the bottom" of every charge.

Escape of Eight Families Blocked by Fire Which Was Unequaled in Rapid- ity in Many Years—Be- lieved to Be of Incendiary Origin—Occupants in Panic—Thrilling Scenes

(Associated Press Leased Wire) NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Thirteen lives were snuffed out in a few minutes in a fire believed to have been of incendiary origin, which early today swept from basement to roof of a four-story tenement in the heart of New York's lower Eastside ghetto. Seven of those killed were children.

The blast, unequalled in rapidity in the annals of the fire department, started in the basement, fanned by a draft from the tenements open front door, blocking escape of the eight families who occupied the building. Some of those in the two upper stories, awakening to find the flames at their bedside, met death before they could even try to dash through the roaring furnace with which they were confronted.

Terrified on opening their hall doors to find a vortex of smoke mushrooming down from the roof through the smoke-choked corridor, the families on the lower floors retreated in panic to the windows from which they made a desperate dash, by seemingly impossible means to reach safety. Several were severely burned; others were injured in falls. Of the dead, five were boys and two were girls, all under two years of age. One of the children was an infant, whose charred body was found in the debris of its dead mother.

The fire was discovered by a passing policeman who saw smoke and flames rising against the inner side of a window. He rushed into the house and up the staircase, hammering with his fists on doors and shouting a warning. Flames stopped him before he reached the upper stories.

The front door had been opened as he entered, and as he dashed out, he saw flames rushing into the house, running from the entrance with three men at his heels. He took all four to a police station, where Chosenfeld, who appeared to police to be mentally deranged, babbling incoherently, all the while, "I haven't got any matches; you can search me."

Lieut. Charles S. Rubinstein of Governor Hospital recognized him as a man he had treated several times for epileptic seizures and who, he added, had come to him for treatment several times. He said several days ago he had taken two stitches in a cut on Chosenfeld's hand and that last night he had removed a bottle, partly filled with a white powder, was found in the man's pockets.

Members of the families in the second and third floors of the building were cut off by a line of flames which licked their way through the hallway doors.

Fire escapes at the back of the building were cut off by a line of flames.

Those on the third floor of the Lifschitz and Faber families and Mrs. Lotta Lifschitz, ninety years old, jumped to the roof of a lower adjoining building by the screams of terror. Stricken with the flames, they sought refuge in a skylight on the adjoining structure and taken unharmed to the street.

One of the first families to reach the danger was that of Harry Barvart, a greasy old, who lived with his wife, Tetia, 56, on the second floor. In their night clothes they walked into the smoke-filled hall and aroused their next door neighbors. Then they stepped out of their windows to a narrow cornice above stairs which were on the ground floor. Inch by inch, they crawled along their perilous path to the tenement next door.

Alex Haskin, a druggist from a fire escape where he had collapsed after apparently trying to save women inside the building, Sylvester Connell awakened in his apartment in the adjoining house by the screams of terror. Stricken with the flames, he rushed to the roof and leaning over the edge with an almost super-human effort, dragged the unconscious man to safety.

Police believe that the entire tenement was a tinder box, as it was a child who had jumped or been thrown from an upper story window. At the hospital where the child was taken, it was said recovery was probable.

When fire apparatus arrived, the flames had burst their way through the roof, the frenzied screams of women and the wailing of children could be heard above the roar of fire hoses.

Police believe that the entire tenement was a tinder box, as it was a child who had jumped or been thrown from an upper story window. At the hospital where the child was taken, it was said recovery was probable.

Chosenfeld and the three men were released, the police being satisfied that the four had nothing to do with starting the fire. Three of the men, they said, had been engaged in attempting to commit a robbery toward a fire box located on ceiling in an alarm.

CARDINAL RULES FOR VA. FARMER GROWING COTTON

An interesting article appears in the current issue of the Southern Planter, giving authentic information on attempts at cotton growing in Virginia and some of the cardinal rules which any farmer launching on the enterprise would have to abide by. In view of the fact that the Danville Chamber of Commerce is fostering the growing of cotton in this tobacco belt as a secondary crop to the staple product, the findings of Professor C. W. Patterson, of the P. I. Extension Service, are interesting. The following article is prepared by T. K. Wolfe, of Blacksburg:

The good yields and high selling price of cotton in 1923 have greatly stimulated interest in cotton production in Virginia. In view of this fact, the Extension Division of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute has used for the first time in preparing a bulletin entitled "Cotton in Virginia."

The Bulletin has been prepared by Professor C. W. Patterson, Jr., and Professor Patterson has included all the necessary steps in the production of cotton. The material has been presented in such a way as to be very understandable and is especially suited for those farmers who are contemplating growing cotton for the first time. Professor Patterson has had the assistance of Mr. E. T. Batten, superintendent of the Holland Agricultural Experiment Station, in Nansemond county since 1914. In view of the fact that both Professor Patterson and Mr. Batten know Virginia conditions so well, the information which has been included in the bulletin is of special value to farmers in Virginia and the material is especially applicable to Virginia conditions.

After discussing thoroughly all the steps in cotton production, Professor Patterson gives certain recommendations for cotton production in Virginia. Professor Patterson states, "If the farmer is to make a success of cotton production in Virginia, the following factors must be kept thoroughly in mind and the farmer must attempt to produce the cotton crop to meet the following essentials of production:

1. The chief limiting factor to the production of cotton in Virginia is the shortness of the growing season.
2. Farmers trying the production of cotton for the first time in 1924 in untended rows should limit their acreage to two or three acres for each grown man.
3. Prices probably will continue to be reasonably good in 1924.

4. When the main cotton belt farther south gets back to normal production, cotton will not be so profitable here.

5. The legal weight of a bushel of cotton seed in Virginia is thirty-two pounds.

6. The cotton grown in Virginia is of the Upland species.

7. Upland cotton is divided into two classes—long-staple and short-staple.

8. The lint of long-staple cotton ranges from one to one-quarter to one and three-quarters inches in length.

9. The lint of short-staple cotton is from three-quarters to one and one-eighth inches in length.

10. Long-staple cotton, brings more per pound but short-staple cotton yields better in Virginia and at present is the most profitable.

11. Varieties recommended for Virginia are given below in order of their preference—Trice being considered best:

Trice—early, bolls larger than King, lint one to one and one-eighth inches.

King—early, small boll, lint three-quarters to seven-eighths inches.

Cleveland—later than either of the above and bolls are larger. Lint one to one and one-eighth inches.

12. Columbia and Durango are the best varieties of long-staple cotton.

13. Good pure seed outyielded ordinary seed about twenty-five percent. They are hard to obtain.

14. The best seed brought $2.00 per bushel, in the fall of 1923 for planting, while ordinary seed sold for $1.00 per bushel.

15. Plant cotton on "early" soils, which are the well drained sandy or loamy upland soils.

16. Hot weather with plenty of sunshine and a moderate amount of rain is best.

17. Use 300 to 600 pounds of 4-8-4 fertilizer on the more sandy soils and about the same quantity 2-12-4 fertilizer on the heavier soils.

18. Drill the fertilizer in the row as with tobacco.

19. If stable manure is used, apply it in the fall and turn it under.

20. If lime is used apply it to some other crop in the rotation.

21. Make a firm seed bed and plant on low ridges.

22. About one bushel of seed is required to plant an acre.

23. Plant after the soil begins to warm up, about May 1st to 15th.

24. Drill the seed thick and cover about one inch deep.

25. Thin to eight to sixteen inches.

26. The rows should be three to four feet apart.

27. Cultivate shallow and frequently until the branches begin to overlap the middles.

28. The average experienced cotton picker can pick about 200 pounds of seed cotton in a day.

29. Most of the cotton is picked in October.

30. Most of the hand labor required on cotton is in the picking.

31. Seed cotton is cotton just as it is picked.

32. Ginning is the operation of separating the lint from the seed.

33. Approximately one-third of seed cotton is lint and two-thirds seed in weight.

34. It is most profitable to have the seed cotton ginned and then sell the seed and lint separately.

35. A bale of cotton weighs 500 pounds.

36. The boll-weevil has already made its appearance in Virginia.

37. The damage from boll-weevil will probably not be serious in Virginia for several years, at least.

38. To make an early maturing crop of cotton:

- (a) Plant on an early variety.
- (b) Select well drained sandy or loamy upland soil.
- (c) Use a fertilizer containing an abundance of phosphoric acid.
- (d) Leave the cotton thick on the land.

Seagrave Aerial Truck Will Be Ordered Today

City Purchasing Agent Frank Talbot stated this morning that he would today sign a contract with the Seagrave Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio, for the purchase of a motor extension ladder to be placed in service at the Patton street station, replacing the antiquated horse-drawn ladder which has been in service since 1896 and which is considered dangerous in its present condition by the chief of the fire department. The price of the new engine is $15,500 but the city will buy it for $14,500 since the manufacturing company has volunteered to take in the present ladder for $1,000.

The contract provides that the new engine shall be delivered in 120 working hours. The aerial ladder when fully extended will reach 75 feet as compared with the 65 feet pitch of the present ladder. It is drawn by a 130 horse power motor and the engine will carry a varied assortment of equipment such as chemical extinguishers, axes, crowbars and other tools which are often needed on short notice in combating a serious fire.

The beauty about the engine is the rapidity with which it can be raised. The main ladder is tilted to the required angle by a powerful spring and the extensions are telescoped within the main ladder and are hoisted by power. The machine will be valuable to the department not only as a means of saving life from high buildings but as a water tower since here will be coupled to the ladder and when extended it will enable the firemen to pump at high pressure water from an elevation into any fire which may develop. The machine is unusually light and is equipped with a rear steering device thus making it possible to make turns without danger and to be quickly handled in close quarters.

M'ADOO IN RACE FOR PRESIDENT TO THE FINISH

Supporters Endorse Him, Condemning "Conspiracy Which Brought Him Innocently Into Oil Scandal," From Which He Emerged Stronger Than Before.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Stylish by his friends as "pre-eminently available for the presidency and hope of the progressive thought of the nation," William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, is in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination to stay.

The conference of supporters from nearly every state which met here yesterday to discuss the effect of Mr. McAdoo's connection with the Do-heny-oil interests after his services in the Wilson cabinet upon his presidential candidacy unanimously approved a resolution demanding his leadership.

"We denounce and condemn the recent infamous conspiracy which attempted to besmirch his name and proclaim that he has emerged from the attacks stronger than before," the resolution said.

"We unanimously demand his leadership."

Called to address the assemblage after the vote of confidence, Mr. McAdoo outlined his platform.

These are some of the things that are needed and "that need to be done to protect the rights of the people and satisfy the demands of progress," he said.

"Drive corruption out of Washington, call a new world conference to deal with political and economical problems, submit the question of American foreign policy to a national referendum, take the grip of Wall street off the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve system, repeal the Fordney-McCumber tariff act, prompt railroad reforms, put agriculture on its feet again strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment prohibiting child labor, establishment of a national labor code, clean out the Veterans Bureau, and pay a soldier's bonus."

"Until the government is purged and made clean, honest and efficient no progress can be made," the settlement of the great problems confronting the American people," Mr. McAdoo said.

"The church will be called 'The Lawyers Mire'."

By NEA Service

HARDIN, Mont., Feb. 18.—A church dedicated to lawyers is to be built here.

Originally started by local home-steaders who are forced to abandon the project because of poor crops the structure is to be completed by attorneys throughout the country.

C. F. Gillette, Hardin lawyer, originated a novel subscription plan. He sent out appeals to brother legal lights to "buy a brick." Each brick costs the donor 50 cents.

The church will be called "The Lawyers Mire."

City Budget Is Agreed Upon By Council Informally

Twenty-two city officials and members of the city council were entertained last night at the Country Club by L. B. Conway, whose resignation as a councilman after 15 years' service, was recently accepted with regret by that body. The dinner was tendered primarily for the purpose of affording an opportunity to the council for informal consideration of the budget, which is now ready for submission to the council at its next regular meeting.

Few changes, it is understood, were made in the budget which shows an anticipated income of approximately $1,700,000. It is described as the most conservative budget ever prepared, this being due to the fact that the present council's term expires September 1st, and the present council wishes to provide money only for the most urgent expenditures.

No new large projects are provided for except the repaving of Craghead street, which has been delayed for nearly two years and which will cost the city $62,000. This big item renders it unlikely that any other street work will be undertaken and no provision is made for Watson street, though the new council should it see fit, may find a way of handling this matter. Much depends however upon the course of the charter now before the General Assembly.

License Numbers On Automobiles Must Be Exposed

State License Inspector E. T. Hunsom of Chatham announced this morning that he had been directed to enforce the letter that class of the Virginia traffic law which provides that state license plates shall be fully exposed to view and must not be hidden by fixtures on the automobiles.

He said that he has the pleasure of co-operation by the city authorities in this matter, with respect to the city license plate, Officer Hunsom stated that it frequently occurs that license tags are affixed to machines shielded by spare tires, bumpers and other fixtures and that in many instances the city strip is affixed to the bottom of the state license number in such a way as to overlap and render a reading of the state number difficult.

He quoted the law and stated that there are times when it becomes necessary for officers to take numbers of passing cars hastily also that in some instances it is impossible to read the number when they are partly hidden in the shadows of the motor vehicle.

The Law of Virginia which deals with this subject is as follows:

"Number plates in duplicate shall also be delivered to the applicant by the Secretary of the Commonwealth upon which the number assigned shall be painted in public numerals of a suitable size to be determined by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, followed by the letters 'Va.' and in figures the year for which issued, and such plates shall always be in evidence upon the front and rear of the machine, and view of the same shall not be obscured by dirt, grease, bumper, tire, tireholder or any other substance or object."

LAWYERS CHURCH HIS IDEA

C. F. GILLETTE

By NEA Service

HARDIN, Mont., Feb. 18.—A church dedicated to lawyers is to be built here.

Originally started by local home-steaders who are forced to abandon the project because of poor crops the structure is to be completed by attorneys throughout the country.

C. F. Gillette, Hardin lawyer, originated a novel subscription plan. He sent out appeals to brother legal lights to "buy a brick." Each brick costs the donor 50 cents.

The church will be called "The Lawyers Mire."

City Budget Is Agreed Upon By Council Informally

Twenty-two city officials and members of the city council were entertained last night at the Country Club by L. B. Conway, whose resignation as a councilman after 15 years' service, was recently accepted with regret by that body. The dinner was tendered primarily for the purpose of affording an opportunity to the council for informal consideration of the budget, which is now ready for submission to the council at its next regular meeting.

Few changes, it is understood, were made in the budget which shows an anticipated income of approximately $1,700,000. INDIGNATION IN CAPITAL OVER AFFAIR GROWS

President Will Take Hand to Put Stop to Promiscuous Shooting in Washington.

BY JOHN EDWIN NEVIN (Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Promiscuous use of deadly weapons by prohibition enforcement agents will be stopped. President Coolidge himself angered over the shooting down of his friend, Senator Frank J. Greene, of Vermont, as he was walking innocently along the street, will insist that steps which will prevent recurrence of such incidents be taken at once.

Senator Greene still is far from being out of danger. He has rallied from the operation, which resulted in the removal of splinters of bone from his brain. But there will be several days at least when the possibilities of complications will be present.

The president is taking a deep personal interest in the case. Both the and Secretary of State have issued hospital and bulletins of the patient's condition are being sent to the White House by the attending physicians.

Meanwhile the indignation over the incident grows. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes is being criticized on Capitol Hill. Senators and representatives insist that he has by his general attitude, both in public addresses and orders to his subordinates, made the misunderstanding they would be upheld in any violence in enforcing the prohibition law.

Representative John Hill, of Maryland, one of the leading "wets" in a statement charged that Haynes aided and abetted lawlessness on the part of his aides. He recalled the action of a Kentucky grand jury in protest against similar episodes about a year ago and declared that shootings of the sort which resulted in the wounding of the Vermont senator have been common in every section of the country.

Just what action congress can take, however, is a question in dispute. The dry leaders insist that enforcement officials must be allowed to protect themselves. They admit the "accident" to Senator Greene was "unfortunate" but say that it could hardly have been avoided.

The two alleged "bootleggers" who were being pursued by Agent Fisher when the latter, Senator Greene insisted that they were not even armed. They deny the allegations of the prohibition official that the first shot was fired by the two men and say they were only trying to get away. They were arrested but secured their release on habeas corpus proceedings. Fisher is out on $5,000 bonds pending the outcome of Senator Greene's injuries.

It seemed likely today that any legislation on the matter will await the recovery of the Vermont statesman. Meanwhile the indignation will be conveyed to the prohibition-unit backed up by sources very close to the president, that he will see if all agents are warned not to use their weapons whenever there is any possibility that an "innocent bystander" might be injured.

HUSBAND IN WAR OF 1812

Widow of Virginia Militiaman Still Living—Black Draught "A Household Remedy with Us," She Says.

Kingsport, Tenn.—Mrs. Fannie V. Thompson, who lives just across the State line from here in Scott County, Virginia, is the widow of George Thompson, a militiaman who fought in the War of 1812. Although that was over 110 years ago, Mrs. Thompson herself is but 75 years old and doesn't look that age. Her life has been, and still is, an active one, and she takes a great interest in the affairs of the day.

"Two years ago," says Mrs. Thompson, "while I was visiting relatives in Russell County, Virginia, I read about Black Draught. It seemed a very reasonable medicine, so I thought I would try it. When I got home my daughter got a box of this medicine at the store and we began to use it in our family."

"Black Draught is a good reliable medicine. It is a household remedy with us for the strong lime-stone water we have to drink in this country."

"Occasionally I suffer from headaches caused from constipation and biliousness and for it I have invariably used Black Draught for the past two years. My health has always been good."

Black Draught is used, with satisfaction, by millions. Try it.

LOAN TO MEXICO IN RETURN FOR CONCESSIONS PROPOSED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—A $25,000,000 loan to the Mexican government in return for agricultural and lumbering concessions in a half dozen of the Gulf and Southern States of the Republic is involved in preliminary negotiations which the Wolvin Line, Inc., is carrying on with the government, according to statements by Captain A. B. Wolvin, of Duluth, head of the corporation.

Ramon P. Denegri, Secretary of Agriculture and development said no petition for such concessions had yet been presented to his department.

Captain Wolvin, with whom is associated among others, Arnold Shanks, former American consul general here, stated that the corporation expected to make properly secured loans to land owners and agriculturists.

Voluntary offers of more than 1,000,000 hectares of land had already been received, Captain Wolvin continued, while the territory it was planned to develop would exceed Minnesota in size and the government took favorable action.

RECORD PURCHASE OF BURLEY TOBACCO

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 18. The largest sale of leaf tobacco on record has just been announced by the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association, which sold to Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company sixty million pounds of Burley leaf.

The purchase was a very large quantity of old Burley tobacco, the best Burley ever grown in Kentucky, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company will use it in the manufacture of their widely known brands, especially Velvet Smoking Tobacco, insuring a superior quality.

A large delegation of local and national managers met to discuss the purchase.

The year 1923 was a "vintage year" for Burley tobacco—the best Kentucky ever grew.

Favored all through the season with exceptional tobacco weather—just enough warmth and not too much rain—the crop developed a "body" and character seldom before equaled.

Our recent 60-million pound purchase included a big crop—very fine quality—mild, full, mellow flavor—this is nothing new for Velvet smokers; but this big supply is an extra safeguard. The same price—mark this well—the same quality as always: "The best Burley grown in Kentucky."

Quiet Week in Social World.

The week in Danville socially opened yesterday with the usual Monday dullness, the evening being given over largely to the meetings of the various church governing bodies. With no weddings of outstanding prominence in a social way in prospect for the week, an abatement of the round of receptions, luncheons, teas and other entertainments which preceded the brilliant marriage of Saturday night, devotees of social life are taking a slight respite this week, at least until Friday evening when several entertainments are on the schedule in connection with Washington's birthday.

Next week will be marked by the Dudley-James wedding on Thursday and it is anticipated that a series of entertainments will immediately follow the beginning of the Lenten season two weeks from tomorrow, it is not unlikely that a number of social entertainments will be crowded into the final week of this month and the first half of the ensuing week. Then will follow the six weeks' respite from society gaiety on the part of many who are usually the leaders in entertaining.

Pupil's Recital At R. M. I.

A large and interested audience attended and enjoyed the pupil's recital at the Randolph-Macon Institute last night in which the schools of music and expression shared the program. Miss Marie L. S. Conner, director of the school of music and director of the school of expression department had the general direction of the affair, assisted by the large music faculty, consisting of eight in addition to Miss Conner. A made up of piano and violin music, vocal selections and readings was given, both the younger and the more advanced students having a part. Many of the selections were brief, however, and the whole program had been concluded by 10 o'clock or very soon afterwards. Misses Wilkins and Taft were the vocalists, while Misses Virginia Taylor, Winifred Buckingham and Daisy Varner contributed the expression numbers.

The musical numbers were rendered with the proficiency and care which usually mark the work of pupils of such experienced teachers, while the violin numbers were tendered with spirit as well as with fine technique and finish.

DANCE YOUR LEGS INTO BEAUTY.

COMPARE THE MEASUREMENTS OF YOUR OWN LEGS WITH THOSE OF GILDA GRAY, SHOWN HERE. THEN TRY TO DEVELOP THEM WITH THESE AS MODELS. GILDA GRAY, HERSELF, AT RIGHT AND ANOTHER VIEW OF HER LEGS.

You needn't hide your legs behind long skirts, especially since the short skirt is coming back. Even though you feel they are nothing to be proud of, there's a way of making them the cynosure of masculine—and even feminine—eyes.

Gilda Gray, famous foibles beauty and owner of what are considered the most shapely legs in the United States, tells how you can develop your own legs just as she has hers.

From a little Polish immigrant girl, Gilda Gray has danced her way to fame and fortune as a Ziegfeld beauty. The secret of her success lies in the following article which she has written especially for your guidance.

By GILDA GRAY.

Dancing is, in my opinion, the best way to develop one's legs. There are many reasons for this, not the least of which is the spirit in which you lose yourself when under the influence of musical rhythm. You sway on and on and on in a delicious languor during which the leg muscles are brought into play almost without thought.

Dancing exercises all the leg muscles and in such a way that perfect co-ordination is obtained. This is due, perhaps, to the fact that music is stressed, has a definite beat, and all dance movements are necessarily graceful.

Then, too, there is the wish to be graceful and beautiful while dancing. This helps immeasurably. This may seem foolish, perhaps, to the one-two-three school of physical culturists. Dancing, they say, is play while, to be beautiful, one must devote time and earnest thought to the training process.

That makes my point exactly. No routine exercise can possibly be as strenuous as continued dancing. The difference lies, however, in the fact that dancing is play—lovely, beautiful, graceful music.

There are some simple exercises, however, which are of great help. One, which has proven most valuable to me, is to stand still, heels together, then to rise slowly on the toes. Another is to squat, hands on hips, rising slowly, repeating the movement again and again.

As far as that goes, practically all exercises are helpful. But dancing, to my mind, is the most valuable of all.

HOUSE TAKES ACTION TO SPEED UP PROGRAM

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 19.—With approximately 250 bills on its calendar awaiting action and more coming from committees, the Virginia House of Delegates today adopted a resolution by its rules committee to hold an afternoon session and to limit debate on second reading measures to ten minutes.

The House defeated a measure providing that the State Board of Education might withhold money from counties delinquent in paying library loans or in making satisfactory financial reports. The vote of advancement of the bill to engrossment was 16 for and 52 against.

A Game and Inland Fisheries Department measure designed to standardize game protection in the State was advanced to third reading. It was amended so as to eliminate protection for bears. Other measures providing tion bearing on several phases of the investigation.

Senator Wheeler who has presented some new matters to the committee for investigation was present at the session today by invitation. Immediately after the committee adjourned subject to the call of the chairman, he went to the Senate chamber to press there his resolution calling for an investigation of the administration of the attorney general and the Department of Justice.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—An effort to run down the latest and one of the most startling reports that has reached Washington in connection with the oil scandal was made today by the Senate oil committee.

Harry Payne Whitney, New York financier, and officials of J. P. Bankard and Company, a New York stock brokerage firm, had been asked to meet with the committee but were not on hand when the session began behind closed doors.

Committee attaches made hurried efforts to locate the witnesses, for whom subpoenas were issued Sunday night.

Members of the Bankard firm arrived at the committee room after the session had been in progress for nearly an hour, but Mr. Whitney had not yet been located.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, author of the resolution proposing an investigation of the administration of Attorney General protection for fish, one of them making the maximum penalty for dynamiting $250, instead of $25, also was advanced.

The bill provides that the division shall make the inspection upon request and the expense of the work shall be borne by fees charged those asking for examinations. After making the inspection the division agent would issue certificates to owners of the fruits or vegetables as to quality and condition.

A bill providing uniform decimal measures for corn meal sold in companies also was reported favorably by the committee after several minutes of discussion.

Daugherty attended the meeting by special invitation. He had with him the report of a special investigator in New York regarding alleged transactions by government officials in stock of the Sinclair oil companies just prior to and subsequent to the Teapot Dome. He also had with him a report by Albert B. Fall.

Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special government counsel in the oil cases, were summoned to the committee room soon after the officials of the Bankard firm had arrived.

Wilton J. Lambert, counsel for Edward J. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, who is under suspicion of having been in the committee, sought a conference this morning with Senator Wheeler but found that the Senator was in attendance at the executive session of the oil committee.

H. Bankard, of the Bankard firm, was first called before the committee. An official stenographer accompanied him into the hearing room. Later the committee called in his attorney, J. P. Bankard, and Lewis H. Bond, an expert accountant of the Federal Trade Commission, who has been placed in charge of the work of auditing the books of brokerage firms in Washington and other cities.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19.—The dramatic unfolding of the oil scandal continued today when the investigating committee went into conference behind closed doors with Harry Payne Whitney, New York financier, and officials of J. P. Bankard and Company, New York stock brokers.

In addition, the persistent demands for the resignation of Attorney General Daugherty were before today's cabinet meeting and the preliminaries of long battles in the courts over the oil leases were being prepared by the government's special counsel, Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, and Atlee Pomerene of Canton, Ohio, the Senate having acted finally on both appointments.

Mr. Whitney and the members of the Bankard firm were summoned to Washington in connection with the oil committee's study of transactions of the stock of the Sinclair Oil Company. Receipt of new and startling information is understood to have given rise to the developments which resulted in the decision to subpoena them—and hints have been flying that the fact that names of prominent and former officials not heretofore mentioned might soon be brought in to the oil inquiry.

The New York financier and the broken-hearted late Sunday afternoon suggestion of Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, and others.

Mr. Wheeler was invited to take part in the committee's conference with them today, and he also planned to take part in the committee's action in the Senate on his resolution for an investigation of the administration of the Department of Justice by Attorney General Daugherty.

The stormy morning around Attorney General Daugherty had centers at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue today. After conferences with the president and Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, he suggested yesterday that his resignation was a matter that could be considered properly at today's cabinet session, which already was preoccupied with the decision of Secretary Denby to quit the presidential office. Increase the embarrassments of the executive in view of his part in the leasing of the naval oil reserves.

Mr. Wheeler's resolution in the Senate authorizing an investigation of Mr. Daugherty and his department is a substitute for one he originally introduced calling for the attorney general's resignation and was advanced as a result of the latter's request for such an inquiry.

ATTORNEYS CONFER WITH PRESIDENT

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Having come through a period of close scrutiny with a stamp of approval, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special government oil counsel, today began preparations for their work with a conference with President Coolidge.

The president's general situation, but said they reached no final decision relating to the details of the legal proceedings to be instituted to recover naval oil reserves.

One of the first steps, it was indicated, will be suits to annul leases to the Teapot Dome reserve, obtained by Harry F. Sinclair, and to the Elk Hills reserve, granted to E. L. Doheny.

"Haste is of utmost necessity," Mr. Roberts said. "We must remember, however, that our case should be first proposed if humanly possible to institute anything which would compel us to file amended complaints or in any way retract our steps."

With respect to injunction proceedings to prevent further extraction of oil from the two reserves, Mr. Roberts said, consideration was being given to the place of filing of the bill. The location of the real estate involved and the States in which the leasing companies were incorporated were the guiding factors, he asserted.

Mr. Roberts said he had reviewed a great deal of the evidence taken by the oil committee since his nomination and also had read practically all of the speeches on the question delivered in the Senate. The addresses, he added, had been found to contain valuable information and his assistants, George J. Chandler and Urie J. Menck, working with the assistants called in by former Senator Pomerene, Albert E. Powell and John B. Dempsey of Cleveland, now are engaged in collating the evidence so far advanced.

President Coolidge is understood to have given a rule to the committee the only directions he had to give them and these followed along the lines of his statement of January 26th announcing that special counsel would be employed.

After the attorney had established himself today in quarters in a downtown office building, they went to the capitol to attend the executive session of the Senate committee.

How Gypsy Band Was Arrested On Gretna's Outskirts

The account of an official "eye-witness" to the rounding up of a troupe of gypsies who were arrested near Gretna last Saturday while travelling north in their automobiles was received today. Reference has already been made to the detention of some sixty of these wanderers, who were ordered held following the collection of sums of money totalling more than $100 by sleight of hand tricks. The following narrative of the means by which the arrest of the band was brought about and the unusual spectacle which it presented is given by one who was present:

B. R. Powell, of Gretna, was called over telephone by Commonwealth Attorney J. H. Hines at 1:45 p. m. and requested to stop and arrest the wanderers who were travelling north via speedy motor cars. He hesitated to take this step without official cooperation and dispatched a messenger to Gretna to receive the representative of the Commonwealth. The messenger returned and advised that he could not give his immediate attention to the call. Meanwhile another messenger was received from the Gretna police station, advising that preparations for a third call were being made at all hazards. A messenger was then sent for Mayor D. E. Webb, with a request for his co-operation but before he could comply with the request a third call was received urging action without delay. Intelligence was received that the persons wanted had driven into town and with only a brief stop were leaving on a fast return to the highway. Mr. Powell decided that in view of the repeated insistence from the office of the Commonwealth's Attorney that he proceed to halt them without further delay, he would call on Jones Watlington, Walter Pickler, Bob Mayhew, Harry Mayhew and Tom Harvey he set out in pursuit of the fleeing gypsies who, in a burst of speed, were making a dash for it. Mr. Powell decided that in view of the repeated insistence from the office of the Commonwealth's Attorney that he proceed to halt them without further delay, he would call on Jones Watlington, Walter Pickler, Bob Mayhew, Harry Mayhew and Tom Harvey he set out in pursuit of the fleeing gypsies who, in a burst of speed, were making a dash for it.

Calling on Jones Watlington, Walter Pickler, Bob Mayhew, Harry Mayhew and Tom Harvey he set out in pursuit of the fleeing gypsies who, in a burst of speed, were making a dash for it. Mr. Powell decided that in view of the repeated insistence from the office of the Commonwealth's Attorney that he proceed to halt them without further delay, he would call on Jones Watlington, Walter Pickler, Bob Mayhew, Harry Mayhew and Tom Harvey he set out in pursuit of the fleeing gypsies who, in a burst of speed, were making a dash for it.

A shot from one of the posse persuaded the driver to slow down and pull to one side of the road. Putting on a burst of speed, the gypsies came within the range of the posse and a half mile further on where they had slowed down to debate which route to take at the forks of the road. The pursuing truck was driven into their midst, cutting off escape and the posse, displaying their arms disembarked and called a halt.

In a wide, level space fringed by a few trees in the distance, with a bright sun shining down quite a picturesque scene was presented as the gypsies piled pell-mell out of their cars, the women and children tearful, the men entreating. It might have been with a few transformations allowed the imagination, a group of desperadoes who had been holding up a stagecoach and were being taken to the gallows.

This war-like effect was so realistic that one estimable citizen who had followed the posse to witness the arrest upon looking the situation over, decided the outbreak of hostilities imminent and took refuge behind a convenient corn shock. He was later induced to come out and take part in conveying the gypsies back to town. With a few peremptory orders from the posse the gypsy cars were quickly turned and headed back to town.

As this part of the program was completed Mayor D. E. Webb, J. H. G. H. Franklin the chief of police and an assistant drove up, just in time to lead the triumphal procession back to town.

The gypsy cars, eight in number were taken to the public square where they were held pending the arrival of Commonwealth's Attorney P. J. Hundley and officers from Chatham and numerous Saturday afternoon visitors availed themselves of this opportunity of observing the gypsies at first hand. Reports of the capture and the reasons therefore were soon current with various additions and embellishments.

It developed that they had been practicing the flim-flam game in Chatham very successfully to considerable pecuniary loss of various respected citizens who had been victims of their losses filed complaint with the Commonwealth's Attorney who in turn took measures to insure their apprehension. The proper authorities soon arrived and a communique was agreed on the return of proceeds of the game and payment of costs. After these arrangements were made the gypsies once more took up "the gypsy trail."

COURT SESSION IS OVER

Corporation court has adjourned for the term, the final motions being entertained yesterday. Among these was one re-instating the Ramos divorce action on the docket and the issuance of a rule against R. Ramos, Jr. citing him to appear before the court next March 2nd to be questioned regarding the alleged non-payment of alimony to Mrs. Edna B. Ramos. The amount of permanent alimony set by the court in the original decree was $50 per month, the records show.

A divorce decree was granted in the case of J. W. Justice against Katie S. Justice.

HOUSE PLUNGES INTO FIGHT ON REVENUE BILL

Attention Centered On Income Tax Rates—Democrats United, Republicans' Ranks Are Split.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—An eleven-hour appeal by the White House today to House Republican insurgents, urging agreement with the organization Republicans on the Mellon income tax rate schedule failed to break the deadlock between the groups.

As the income rates of the revenue bill were taken up in the House Republican leaders admitted the vote would be close with the Democrats united for the Garner Democratic plan and with the insurgents still holding out against the treasury rates and threatening to vote with the Democrats if their compromise is not accepted.

C. Bascom Sloop, secretary to the president, informed some members of the insurgent group today that the president was desirous that the party should stand as a unit against the Democratic tax reduction plan. This move followed failure of two meetings yesterday between the Republican and Democratic insurgents, members, to reach an agreement on a compromise, the latter group holding out for a 40 per cent maximum surtax with a fifty per cent cut in normal rates while the Republicans would go to a plunger into 27 1/2 per cent, on the surtax and a 25 per cent in normal rates.

Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, one of the eleven Republican of the Ways and Means committee who voted the Mellon income rates in to the bill, served notice today that if the rates were defeated now he would move their adoption as an amendment after the bill is completed.

He believed, would make it possible to get a record vote on the Mellon rates.

Other Republican leaders also have indicated that if defeated at this time on income schedules they would make a stand when the bill is reported out for a final vote.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The House today plunged into the fight on the income tax rate schedules, the heart of the revenue bill, with the Republican ranks still split after three days of conferences and the Democrats united for the reduction plan advanced by Representative Garner of Texas.

Two meetings between the Republican organization leaders and the insurgent group yesterday failed to bring about an agreement on income rate schedules. Representative Frear, Wisconsin, a spokesman for the insurgents, previously had announced if their compromise offer was not accepted his group, believed to number between 20 and 30, would vote against the Democratic plan. The Democrats, with a membership of 207 out of 435 in the house, are bound by party caucus action to support the Garner plan and the Representatives Vefald, Farmer-Laborer, Minnesota and Berger, Socialist, Wisconsin, also have announced their intention to vote for that program. Representative Deal, Democrat, Virginia, however, who voted the Mellon income agreement and has said he will vote for the Mellon rates.

The agreement under which the income rate sections were taken up today out of turn in the hearing of the bill, which was commenced yesterday at the conclusion of the four days of general debate, provided that the Democratic income tax plan should be in order as an amendment and that thereafter the Mellon plan might be introduced and amended by Representative Frear should be in order as a substitute amendment. Representative Frear's plan calls for no change in the present surtax rates and for a fifty per cent cut in the normal income taxes.

EXPERTS WILL STUDY EDUCATION IN AFRICA
LONDON, Feb. 19.—An Anglo-American Commission has left England to study the educational systems used in East, Central and South Africa and to draw up a report as to the best line on which the educational needs of Africa may be met.

The expedition will visit Abyssinia, Adis Abeba, Kenya and Uganda, and then proceed to Belgian Africa. The expenses of the trip are being paid from American funds, and by British Missionary societies.

Hitherto 30 per cent of the educational work among native Africans has been through missionary enterprise, but this commission will work with the British government in order to allow the latter to assume control of native education in the future.

Public Likes Stamped Envelopes.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Use of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers in the mails is extensive. Last year 2,121,000,000 were made for the postoffice department at Dayton, Ohio. They included 1,256,000,000 plain stamped envelopes, 1,431,000,000 stamped envelopes with return cards printed in the upper left-hand corner, and 50,000,000 newspaper wrappers. It costs the government about $1,300,000 to have these printed.

Atty.-General Is Defiant In Face of Attack

would be made when the meeting is over.

Within the past two days Mr. Coolidge has advised with many Senators and others regarding the future conduct of the Department of Justice and Mr. Daugherty himself has received advice from several of those who are prominent in the conduct of the affairs of his party. Last night he had a long conference with a group of Republican Senate leaders.

All of those in closest touch with the latest turn in the situation steadfastly refused to talk about it or reveal just what new information had been entered into the campaign to drive Mr. Daugherty out of the cabinet. It was entirely apparent, however, that in its newest phases the attack was a direct outgrowth of the oil investigation. Those opposing his continuance as a member of the president's official family have redoubled their efforts since new information in the oil muddle was brought to Washington Sunday and on the basis of what they now know they seemed perfectly confident today that the Attorney-General would resign almost immediately.

Just before the cabinet meeting Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, special government counsel in the oil cases, conferred with President Coolidge. There was every indication that they told the president would be passed on by him to the meeting of his official advisers.

Reports that the special counsel asked the president to request Mr. Daugherty to retire could not be confirmed. Both Mr. Pomerene and Mr. Roberts refused to talk.

Mr. Pomerene had been acquainted Sunday with the new and startling developments in the oil cases which have stirred the capital, and he and Chairman Lenroot, of the oil committee, communicated to the president late Sunday night.

The visit of the two members of the cabinet to a conference last night immediately upon Mr. Roberts' arrival in Washington.

The Senators who called on Mr. Daugherty last night included Pepper and Reed, of Pennsylvania; Moses of New Hampshire, and other administration leaders. They talked over, among other things, the resolution of Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, proposing an investigation of the attorney general and the Department of Justice.

The Attorney General is said to have insisted he should not quit under fire.

The conference therefore reached no definite conclusion. Some changes are desired by the Republican leaders in the wording of the Wheeler resolution, but as Mr. Daugherty himself has asked for an investigation of his official acts, leaders for all groups believe the resolution will be adopted. Provisions probably will be made for the appointment of a committee of seven to conduct the inquiry.

Attorney General Daugherty was among the last to arrive at the White House for the cabinet meeting. Asked if he would have a statement after the meeting, he replied: "All I can say is that it's a bad day outside."

Downward Trend In All Commodity Prices Arrested

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The downward trend in general commodity wholesale prices was arrested in January, the average level for that month being just what it was in December. In another report made public today dealing only with retail food prices, however, the bureau's flavor statistics gave out figures showing an average decrease of one per cent, in these commodities during the month ending January 15.

In the farm commodity group of wholesale prices, a slight net decrease was shown. Cattle and clothing also were slightly lower, but fuel and lighting materials showed an average increase of more than four per cent, and lesser advances were recorded for building materials and miscellaneous commodities.

TYPED LOVE LETTERS SHOCK SOCIAL MENTOR

PARIS, Feb. 16.—Andre de Fouquieres, who is universally accepted in France as the highest authority on social etiquette, has been asked his ruling whether a member of society, of the male sex, should use a typewriter for a letter to another member of society, of the female sex, if the letter is not strictly limited to business matters.

Decidedly not, says M. de Fouquieres. "The most elementary proper feeling and the simplest courtesy exact that any such letter be written by hand," he declares. "It is impossible even to imagine a typed letter being addressed to a woman, although the contents might be mere commonplace; how much more inconceivable, then, would a typed letter be if it expressed tender affections? Such a letter is bad form in that it allows the supposition that it may have been dictated to a third person."

SPORTS GOSSIP

Of what quaint and curious stuff "world's champions" are made! Consider Mr. Pancho Villa, the distinguished brown man from the Philippines. Villa is the world's flyweight champion. Yet he has been beaten three consecutive times by Frankie Genaro, a New York Italian. Now he refuses to meet Genaro.

Consider also the case of Michael Angelo McClellan, who unashamedly admits being the world's champion light heavyweight. Mr. McClellan caught Battling Siki in an unguarded moment of sobriety and whipped him before an prejudiced Dublin audience last spring.

Since then Mr. McClellan has done nothing whatever, except to lose a bout to Young Stribling, a 19-year-old schoolboy, and to squawk vociferously about being robbed, outraged and intimidated.

Villa and McClellan? Whaddya-mean world's champions?

Atlanta seems to be the Mecca of major league clubs in the way of exhibition games. No less than nine clubs of the sixteen in the big time, four National and five American, are scheduled for the southern city. In addition there are several minor league aggregations to show there. The Crackers have a brand new baseball factory under construction which it is reported will cost around $100,000 and Atlanta fans are expecting to see the Crackers away out in front at the end of the Southern league pennant chase. They have secured Neff, who had such success managing the Mobile outfit, to succeed Otto Miller in piloting the club. Benny Haver has been sent back from the majors without a trial and quite an aggregation of the real thing in the way of ball players have been rounded up for the 1924 campaign. Everything has a rose-tinted hue for the Atlanta backers.

The day of miracles is not past, far from it. The Southern League, at their schedule meeting recently, accepted without a murmur of dissent the schedule presented and everybody in general was tickled to death over it. It would be while to get the calendar to get one out for the Piedmont since everybody can't seem to agree on anything so far presented.

Young Stribling is apparently a very versatile young man. He has been seen in a Young Stribling basketball team of which the fighter is a member. The team is to appear at Raleigh, N. C., on the night of February 27, and the following night the basketballer will turn out on a mission to see Stribling at Camp Bragg, where he is scheduled to meet Jack Healy, champion of the Atlantic fleet.

All eyes are on the contest between the undefeated Carolina quilter who meet the Methodist saint in the late's back yards tonight. Although the Trinity outfit went down to defeat at the hands of the Carolina cracks in a previous game to the tune of 20 to 31, still the Blue Devils are working hard every day and hope to end the triumph march of the University five. Trinity seems to have about the best chance of any team in the state of stopping the Hill boys and if Carolina goes home with an unbroken record tonight, it is a pretty sure thing that they will go through the season without a loss.

It is announced that Johnny Nee, late of the Evansville club of the Three-I League will hold the managerial reins of the Augusta club in the State league for the 1924 battle. This is the second Three-I leaguer to take up the management of clubs in this section as it will be remembered that Bill Jackson, who will direct the Twin aggregation this season, came from the same league as Nee. May the new comers prosper.

If ill health keeps Frank Chance from losing the White Sox this year Johnny Evers may get a trial at the job. Not so many years ago the names of Chance and Evers were linked together with the fact that of Tinker in the combination of Tinker to Evers to Chance in one of the greatest intellidts that has ever been seen in the Big Show. And these same boys were doing their stuff in the Windy City, too, although they were working with the Cubs in the National league when that club was winning pennants with annoying frequency instead of in the American league as they now are. Chance and Evers and Tinker have passed their days of usefulness and active players but when they were in their hey-day they made for themselves a name that will be remembered long after they have passed forever from baseball's flickle limelight.

Every time he receives one she weeps bitterly and the Shah feels sorry and gives her a place of jewelry.

FOR THE GAME'S SAKE

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee) NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The statement from army athletic authorities at West Point relative to a "series of scurrilous attacks" appearing in the daily press concerning alleged illegitimate and unethical methods of inducing famous college athletes to enter the academy is characterized by a definite note of irritation. Special reference is made in the army statement, signed by Lieut. Koehler, executive officer of the army athletic association and Captain M. B. Ridgway, graduate manager of athletics, to articles appearing under an Annapolis date line.

Purely in the interest of continued athletic relations between the army and navy the writer feels that the West Point communiqué should not be permitted to pass without some discussion.

Primarily it should be said that Colonel Koehler and Captain Ridgway make a perfectly well taken point when they say that "certain of the institutions are held to a stricter accountability scholastically than exists generally among seats of learning."

But how about this paragraph? "It may be of interest to note that the first intimation the authorities at the military academy has concerning the "flow of football stars" to West Point came to them through the public press in a number of articles all of which emanated from Annapolis."

A point might be made here as to just what constitutes a "flow." Certainly it was known at West Point that the academy elevens in recent years have benefited by the services of players who entered the academy with sectional or national reputations. Names such as Oliphant, Garbisch, Storck, French, and Tiny Hewitt will readily occur.

The statement points out that these appointments "are vested in and controlled by the president, senators and congressmen" and "any charges such as contained in these attacks must of necessity therefore at least by inference, include some of these gentlemen." That is perfectly true. The question is whether these appointments were made in the usual way and by fortunate chance a number of star football players happened to win in the customary competition; or whether congressmen or others knew the men receiving the appointments were qualified football players, or finally, whether appointments were suggested by officers of the army interested in the success of the football eleven.

In any event, this is none of the public's business and no inherent evil may be discerned—unless it be true that applicants for admission to the academy are in some measure discriminated against in favor of football material.

But it would certainly appear that the Navy—no matter what the underlying motive of its three year rule—has reason to feel that the army, able to play first year men has an undoubted advantage.

One of the whole thing one fact is clear: The two institutions should come together in agreement of one sort or another if a very fine and inspiring traditional relationship in sports is to continue without rancor—if, in fact, it is to continue at all.

WORKING ON PLANS FOR TWO BIG BOUTS TO BE STAGED DURING SUMMER

(Associated Press Leased Wire) NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Two of the big boxing shows of the summer may be definitely arranged this week. The return bout between Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, and Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul, who gained the distinction of being the only man to remain the entire distance with the champion by lasting fifteen rounds at Shelby, Montana, last summer, is on the program for discussion between Tex Rickard and Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager.

Through his manager, Eddie Kane, who was here sometime ago, Gibbons already has agreed to terms for a bout. Kearns has given indications he was satisfied with Rickard's tenders. The bout would be held in a new arena in the metropolitan district, probably in New York State about June 1st.

Notice has been served by Luis Angel Firpo, the South American heavyweight champion, on the "Big Boy" contender, deposited $50,000 in a Buenos Aires bank to his credit this week, he will consider the negotiations ended. Raymond, spokesman for the syndicate, said the $50,000 would be posted and Firpo would be handed $100,000 more within 48 hours after his arrival here. The promoters desired to hold the bout in Connecticut, Raymond said, but satisfactory guarantee to the state has not yet been given to Billy Carney, Firpo's American representative.

LYNCHBURG WINS FROM TIGER QUINT

HAMPDEN SIDNEY, Va., Feb. 18.—In a game starting off exceedingly slow but ending up with a whirlwind finish the Lynchburg Hornets took the odd game of the series from the Tigers, 22 to 15. Neither team could complete attempts at goals for a greater part of the first half but during the last five minutes play many goals were registered for both sides. Each team added points as fast as the other during the last moments, making the game most exciting. The first half was rather slow and ten minutes had elapsed before either team had scored. Lynchburg then rang up several close shots so that the score at the first half was 11 to 4 in their favor. Both teams missed good tries at goals, mostly long attempted shots. Hampden-Sidney made several substitutions just before the whistle blew for the half. ARRESTED HERE ON SALISBURY ORDER AND THEFT CHARGE

A telephone message from Salisbury, N. C., to the Danville Police Department last night asked the authorities here to apprehend J. K. Coon, a 20-year-old white man, who was believed to be destined for this city on Southern train No. 12, who was wanted by the Carolina authorities on a charge of larceny. Accompanying this information was an accurate description of Coon. With this to guide them, Sergeant J. H. Martin and Patrolman O. W. Bates went to the station to meet the train and had no difficulty in identifying Coon from the phoned description. It was stated that the man had a handbag, a bundle of shirts marked with the initials "L. D. A." a light overcoat and a brown overcoat. When the man was taken into custody, all of the missing goods described were found, including the initialed shirts, except the brown overcoat. The light overcoat was there, and so was the handbag. The man arrested denied having stolen the articles enumerated and insisted that the things found by the police were not his. Nevertheless he was taken into custody and locked up to await instructions from Salisbury. If he demands a requisition, some days' delay may be involved. Otherwise he will be delivered to the Salisbury authorities and permitted to tell his story to them.

COTTON MILLS FIND EMPLOYMENT OF BOYS UNDER 14 POOR POLICY

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOYS WORK 60 HOURS A WEEK IN GASTONIA (N. C.) COTTON MILLS. PICTURE (UPPER LEFT) SHOWS THEM GOING TO WORK. ROME (GA.) BOY (RIGHT) IS 12 YEARS OLD AND THE SOLE SUPPORT OF HIS MOTHER AND TWO BROTHERS. TYPICAL MILL CHILDREN OF ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (LOWER LEFT) ARE HOME ALONE ALL DAY. FOR BOTH THEIR PARENTS MUST WORK TO EARN A LIVING FOR THE FAMILY. ROY GIBBONS, NEA SERVICES WRITER, FOUND A NORFOLK GIRL (LOWER CENTER) IN ROCKY MOUNT WHO WORKED 60 HOURS A WEEK FOR $5.80 ON WHICH SHE LIVED

By ROY J. GIBBONS

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 18.—Employment of children under 14 years is not good business.

Southern cotton mill owners have found that out.

They say they were taught their lesson during the time the federal child labor law, now defunct, was in force. Yet they are opposed to a constitutional amendment which would empower Congress to enact new child labor legislation.

Typical of this attitude is the statement by P. E. Glenn, president of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' Association, who says:

"There might once have been a time when the southern textile operator could have been criticized for his employment of very young children."

"But today this operator realizes that children under 14 working in his mill are not profitable investments."

"Under the federal law, which was declared unconstitutional, child workers between 14 and 16 were prohibited from working more than eight hours a day."

"But in the south our children mature much more rapidly."

"Prohibiting them from working until 14 we consider is ample protection."

"Children of 14 seldom see Sun in 60-hour Cotton Mill Week."

You'll find plenty of 14-year-old boys and girls in typical southern mill towns where only glimpses at the sun is through the window of a cotton mill.

In North Carolina armies of salaried little mites are granted legal permission to work 11 hours in a single day and 60 hours a week.

They constitute the proverbial dull Jacks and listless Jills given too much work and too little pay.

From cradle to grave their lot has been fixed both by precedent and environment.

They and their children and their children's children must watch and feed the growing spindles.

Sixty hours of work a week leaves an easily recognizable pallor on the mill child's cheek.

Schooling has ended for the average mill child before the fifth grade. Georgia mill owners, however, have introduced a bill in the Legislature prohibiting employment of 12-year-old boys in textile industries.

This is a significant move. But Georgia, by reason of her weak labor laws, still attracts great numbers of child workers from the adjoining state of Alabama.

Weak State Laws Tempt Interstate Traffic in Child Mill Workers.

These interstate employees, protected by Alabama laws, which prohibit more than eight hours of work for children between 14 and 16, flow across the boundary line daily into Georgia.

Morning and night sees the bridge across the Chattahoochee River at Columbus, Ga., crowded with boy and girl cotton mill workers coming into Georgia from Alabama. All of them are between 14 and 16. But Alabama, in which they live, can do nothing to prevent such self-imposed exploitation.

In Georgia, where boys of 12 may go to work providing they are orphans or the support of widowed mothers, 60-hour week is also legal. Most of the cotton mills there are running on a 55 to 58-hour basis.

At Rome, Ga., where the writer was arrested on the protests of a mill owner who objected to having pictures of his property taken, an instance was found where a 12-year-old boy was given employment at $5 a week, while his older brother, a lad of 15, complained of walking the streets in search of a job.

This same 12-year-old boy, by virtue of his earning power, was the sole support of his widowed mother.

his 18-year-old brother and a still younger member of the family.

As yet there is no state aid thru a mother's pension for youngsters of this type in Georgia, so all the commonwealth can do to assist them is grant permission to quit school and go to work.

Generally speaking, in the principal southern cotton mill states, long hours for child workers prevail.

This condition, in addition to industrial privation, saddles further domestic hardship upon the mill boy and girl.

Living in a community built around the mill, the children receive but brief contact with the outside world.

Work in Cotton Mills Creates Caste System, Denounced by Child Welfare Workers.

Such state of affairs has created a virtual caste system vehemently denounced by Federal Child Welfare Department heads.

In the town of Rocky Mount, N. C., the writer found mill children who had never been to town, just a mile away.

Mill employees there refer to themselves as the "herms" and to residents of the city as the "offens."

In North Carolina, fathers and children, working in the same mill on the day shift, saw their wives and mothers, working on the night shift, but once a week, when the mill closed on Saturday afternoon.

The writer was present at one of these family reunions, when husband and wife met for the first time in six days.

She came up the street swinging her lunch basket at noon. He had returned home a few hours before after the night gang "knocked off."

"Hello, Johnny!" she greeted him. "How were you last week?"

"Pretty good, Nell," came his reply. "Made $14.50. What do we eat tomorrow?"

Conditions such as these find disfavor in the eyes of Frank E. Wood, commissioner of labor and industrial statistics for Louisiana.

Wood, as past president of the Association of Government Labor Officials of the United States and Canada, and a member of the executive committee of the same organization, favors the passage of a federal child labor law.

"It is the only think which can do away with existing evils," he says. "And southern manufacturers can attribute their present realization that child labor is unprofitable to operation of the now defunct federal child labor laws."

"These laws were a blessing to the manufacturer and to the child, and should be revived."

FLETCHER TO ITALY AS AMBASSADOR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, now ambassador to Belgium, has been selected by President Coolidge to be ambassador to Italy. He will succeed Richard Washburn Child, who recently retired.

The nomination of Mr. Fletcher was sent today to the senate. The vacancy which will be created at Brussels by his appointment has been given considerable thought by the president but so far as has been made known no one has been selected. The appointment of William Phillips, under-secretary of state, to the Brussels post, however, has been recommended by several of the president's advisers.

The transfer of Mr. Fletcher from Brussels to Rome is endorsed by Senators Pepper and Reed, of Pennsylvania, and also recommended by Secretary Hughes.

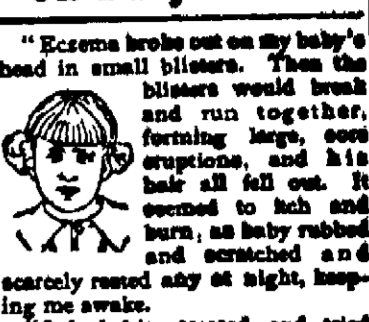

SHELTER SHER CASE TO BE HEARD IN MARCH

The complaint of the City of Danville before the State Corporation Commission against the Southern Railway of failure to provide umbrella or shelter sheds at the passenger station of that company, hearing of which has been twice postponed—once at the instance of the railway, and one time at the city's request—is expected to be heard by the commission at a date in March to be definitely named soon. This complaint is being made by the Chamber of Commerce, which is failing to secure the needed shelter sheds by persuasion was finally forced to invoke the aid of the commission. City Attorney A. M. Allen, and John W. Carter, specially retained by the chamber, will represent the city's interests in this appearance.

"Eczema broke out on my baby's head in small blisters. Then the blisters would break and run together, forming large, oozing eruptions, and his hair all fell out. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using the sample I could see my baby's head was better so purchased more, which healed him." ITS WONDERFUL LITERARY AND MORAL VALUE

Macaulay Says: "If everything else in our language should perish, the Bible would alone suffice to show the whole extent of its beauty and power."
When Walter Scott Lay Dying, he said to his son-in-law: "Lockhart, read me something from the Book." Lockhart asked, "What book?" Scott replied: "Why do you ask? There is but one Book—the Bible!"
Coleridge Says: "Intense study of the Bible will keep any writer from being vulgar in point of style."

John Richard Green Says: "As a mere literary monument the Bible remains the noblest language of the English tongue, while its perpetual use made it from the instant of its appearance, the standard of our language."

Democratic Tax Plan Is Likely to Win in the House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—An intimation that the Democratic tax plan is likely to win in the house is contained in a statement by Representative Green, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the ways and means committee.

Mr. Green, who has consistently advocated a maximum surtax rate of 35 per cent, expressed fear that it is now too late to arrange a compromise so that the bill can be passed as a Republican measure. He said that if the party leaders had been willing to accept a compromise some time ago it could then have been arranged, but their present eleventh hour efforts to avert defeat through a compromise may meet with failure.

The ways and means committee chairman referred to the suggestion for a 35 per cent maximum surtax made some time ago in the Tribune.

"The Tribune can be congratulated on the fact that the Republican managers in the House of Representatives have finally come to agree with the newspaper and myself that the revenue bill should carry a maximum surtax rate of 35 per cent," said Mr. Green in a statement to the Tribune correspondent. "It is obvious that there is no definite fixed point at which the surtax should stop. Professor Seligman, of Columbia University, a leading economist of the country, has fixed it at 40 per cent, but after a careful study of both the theory and practice of taxation in this country, I would fix a lower rate as more scientific. At one time I could have obtained an agreement which would have put a Republican bill through the house on the plans now proposed, but to arrange such a matter in a day or two is a very difficult matter. In the intervening period, however, animosity has been engendered, and I fear it is now too late."

"A conference between the Republican leaders and representatives of the insurgent Republican group is to be held tomorrow at which either an agreement will be reached or else negotiations will be called off. It is a practical certainty that if the Republicans fail to unite on a compromise surtax rate the Democrats will win out."

There are 225 Republicans, 206 Democrats, one Independent, one Farmer-Labor member and one Socialist in the house, 225 constituting a majority. Of the Republicans, 120 are said to favor the Mellon surtax rates, while 205, including those favoring the Mellon rates, have been lined up for a 35 per cent maximum. The plan to win the support of the other 17 Republicans for the 35 per cent rate, the purpose of the leaders is to ascertain the lowest rate which these members will be willing to accept. Of the 205 Democrats, it is claimed that 205 will stand by the caucus agreement to support the Garner plan with a 44 per cent maximum. To get a majority the Democrats need the votes of 13 Republicans. These votes may be forthcoming if the Republican insurgents fail to reach an agreement with the regulars.

The question of normal tax rates may prove a stumbling block in the way of an agreement between Republican groups. The insurgents insist that the normal rates, at least on incomes below $10,000, should be cut in half, instead of being reduced only one-fourth as proposed under the Mellon plan. The regulars insist that the normal rates should be maintained, that the loss in revenue would be too great to consent to such action.

If the regulars and insurgents agree on the maximum 37 or 40 per cent, there will still be some difficulty in working out the schedule of The administration leaders would like to retain the lower brackets as provided in the Mellon bill, which would mean that a rate of 1 per cent would apply on the amount by which the net income exceeds $10,000 and does not exceed $12,000. There would be an additional 1 per cent for each $2,000 of net income up to $36,000, 1 per cent additional for the next $4,000 of net income up to $40,000, and then 1 per cent additional for each $6,000 of net income up to 24 per cent on incomes between $34,000

MORNING STOCK LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Its rather hard to figure out anything very definite right now. The country was banking on a good tax law and at the moment you can't tell just what sort of a law we are going to get. There is too much politics in the air and that is not very good for the stock market.

Things in Europe aren't going right. The money situation in France is down again and in England they have a lot of labor trouble. Putting the whole thing together, the outlook is not very promising.

I think the trend of the market is going to be downward but we have no such conditions as a call for a severe slump immediately and I do not favor indiscriminate selling on weak markets. There should be a pretty good rally some time today.

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO START DANIELS BOOM

Friends Sounding Sentiment in East as to Former Cabinet Member as Candidate for President.

By ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Political and personal friends of Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, are quietly sounding out sentiment in this state as well as other sections of the east, as to the possible availability of the distinguished North Carolina editor as the next Democratic presidential nominee.

The Daniels boom is a tiny yet, no bigger than a man's hand. It has risen out of the steam of the Teapot Dome. It has much the same impetus as the movement which has been started in some localities calling for the nomination of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, the man who has had the burden of the Dome investigation on his shoulders for more than a year. It has been recalled here in New York that the political career of Charles E. Hughes, grew out of an investigation, when he was special counsel for the legislative committee which showed up some of the illegal practices of the big insurance companies.

In the case of Mr. Daniels, however, his friends have tentatively brought him forward before they have considered a general presidential timber long before the Teapot Dome disclosures have shown him in such a favorable light. They have believed Mr. Daniels would have the backing of many of the best elements of his party.

Not the least potent of the influences claimed to be behind Mr. Daniels is that of Wm. Jennings Bryan. When Mr. Bryan announced some time ago that he had "looked over" the Democratic convention to be held in this city the latter part of next June, many persons felt he had Mr. Daniels in mind. He and the North Carolinian had served together in the Wilson cabinet. As a matter of fact it has been said that it was partly due to Mr. Bryan's insistence that Mr. Wilson named Daniels as head of the navy department. Mr. Bryan also stated that he had been a dry goods Southerner. This strengthened the belief in Mr. Daniels. Then the commotion narrowed his choice. He said the man he had in mind was a Floridian. Demands that he name his man brought out the Bryan statement in favor of the nomination of Dr. A. A. Murphy of the University of Florida, one of the best known educators of the South but utterly unknown in the political field.

In Florida, it is considered that Mr. Bryan named Dr. Murphy in the belief it would help the former attain his immediate ambition of being elected a delegate at large from the Peninsula state. Mr. Daniels' friends say they are confident of the wholehearted support of the Bryan wing if any headway at all can be made with the Daniels boom.

The present movement in favor of Mr. Daniels has grown out of the belief that the Teapot Dome scandals are going to have a dominant influence in the next election. Mr. Daniels' friends say it has been shown that the oil plotters tried to put over on Mr. Daniels the same deals which developed later under the Harding regime. Mr. Daniels, they assert, stood like the rock of Gibraltar against the invading hosts of privilege and the seekers after political favors.

The move to create a Daniels sentiment here in New York city has followed an editorial in Frank Murphy's bitter partisan New York Herald in which the Daniels incident was referred to as follows:

"It is pleasant to record that when Greel introduced Stock to Josephus Daniels and Stock asked Daniels to let Teapot Dome be opened up, Daniels refused. That refusal by Wilson's secretary of the navy shines like a good deed in a naughty world of oil and money. Almost everybody else wanted something or gave something, or got something."

NEW YORK STOCKS.

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Selling orders were in the majority at the opening of today's stock market with some large blocks of the oil shares coming out. Losses of half to 1 point were established by Sinclair and Pacific Oils, Continental Can, Republic Steel, U. S. Alcohol and Baldwin. U. S. Steel, American Locomotive and Davison Chemical, however, started slightly higher.

Speculation became irregular in the secondary dealings, fresh buying and short selling competing for the mastery of the movement. In the main, however, the tendency was upward, most of the leading stocks with the exception of the oil shares smartly. Studebaker, American Can, General Electric, Associated Dry Goods, Kelly Springfield, Otis Elevator and Kayser rose 1 to 1.3. Bethlehem Steel, Matheson Alkali, Pacific Oil and May Department Stores were driven down to 1.1.2 points but recovered partially when the rise became more marked in the representative stocks. Exchanges were higher.

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

DANGER

Captains in the North and Baltic seas report many floating mines still are drifting about, endangering ships. These mines were planted in wartime. More than five years of mine-sweeping have not entirely cleared the seas.

Floating mines appeal to the imagination, which makes them vivid as dangers. But the most dangerous "mines" left over from the war are national and racial hatreds, far more explosive than T. N. T. Time may sweep them up, but slowly. No war is ever really over until both sides forgive each other.

STRIKE

It looks as if coal mine operators and the miners' union have gotten together on a basis that will prevent general strikes in the soft coal industry for at least several years. There will, of course, be the customary local strikes in the non-union fields.

It is about the best news that could be read by the householder furnace tender, pa who pays the bills. We emphasize its importance because Teapot Dome and other sensations shoved the coal news into acorn.

FARMERS

The average person working on a farm produces more than in 1900, according to report estimates. Manufacturing has made just as good a record, if not better.

The problems of production are largely solved. Problems of distribution are not much improved. We produce the stuff, all right but don't know how to distribute fairly after we have it. Our generation has specialized on production. The coming generation will specialize on distribution.

KELLY ELECTED.
(Associated Press Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—William Kelly, of Vulcan, Mich., an engineer, banker and industrialist, has been elected president of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. It was announced at the institute meeting today.

HE MUST HAVE NINE LIVES.
Small Nephew—Tell us about the time you were frozen to death at the north pole, Uncle Jack.

Small Niece—Uncle Jack, please tell us about the time you were killed by wild Indians.—Life.

SPENDERS

So much money changes hands, it's a wonder more of it doesn't come my way, the average reader will reflect as he ponders this:

Bank clearings (money changing hands in the for most bank checks) recently have been at the rate of 450 billion dollars a year in the United States. Ninety-five per cent. of financial transactions are by bank checks. So the American people are spending about 474 billions a year—or $4.400 for every man, woman and child.

DISTANCE

A ton of freight, on the average, travels more than 300 miles to destination. The average haul in 1900 was 242 miles.

Steadily population becomes more congested in important centers. People get farther and farther from sources of production. Transportation is the greatest economic problem, and each year the solution is farther off instead of closer.

One of McAdoo Supporters Said to Be "Oil" Man

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Tom Arthur, of Great Falls, Montana, delegate to the conference which endorsed William G. McAdoo for the Democratic presidential nomination here yesterday and to whom Senator T. J. Walsh of Montana, member of the Teapot Dome investigation committee, sent his endorsement of McAdoo, is an employee of the Continental Oil Company, according to the Chicago Tribune. "Let an employee, not an executive," The Tribune quoted Mr. Arthur. "My job is to go around wherever I am sent negotiating for leases and rights of way."

PROHIBIT EXPORTS OF COTTON AND WOOL

(Associated Press Leased Wire)
PARIS, Feb. 19.—A decree prohibiting exportation from France of cotton and wool has just been published. Most of the combed wool produced here is sold abroad and it is feared a number of factories will be forced to close.
